

Publisher's Note...

"It's the most wonderful time of the year."

Pretty hard to say that without singing it, but certainly this is the time of the year that makes everyone feel pretty good. Here at Community Magazine Publishing, we have been quite busy as the holidays approach. We pride ourselves on listening to our readers and we appreciate your feedback, and with this issue we are introducing several new recurring articles we hope will meet the expectations of our Peters Township Magazine readers.

One area for which we consistently get requests is more senior-related news. Thus, we now have our "Senior Center," a regular feature story accompanied by a Community Calendar aimed at Senior events and other information that we hope our Senior residents will appreciate.

Another new department is our "Phantom of the Footlights," which spotlights a cultural attraction in our readership area. We plan on implementing an arts calendar in upcoming issues of the magazine, so please send us your arts announcements for inclusion.

"Histories of Pittsburgh" quenches the thirst of all you historians out there, this month by focusing on an 1861 visit President Lincoln made to the region.

For foodies, we have a bit of a triple whammie this issue: Our "Book Nook" section reviews Jessica Seinfeld's somewhat controversial (but imminently tasty) cookbook, just in time for the holiday season. "Food on the Go" is a new section devoted to, well, food establishments that offer quick meals or munchies for eat-in or takeout. Finally, you will read the return of "Let's Eat," our area department focusing on a local food/restaurant business.

Finally, I would like to comment on our editorial focus: Women in Business. As a woman in business, I can say that—with the possible exception of raising a family—nothing is more difficult or more rewarding than running your own business. Aside from my family, the people to whom I am most grateful are my loyal advertisers and the magazine's wonderful readership. I am always amazed by the incredible encouragement, amazing advice and moral support I get from you while running a publishing business.

This is the time of year when we count our blessings and I have many: my family, my health, my great staff here at Community Magazine Publishing and you! I feel truly blessed to have these many resources to draw on. So I thank you for all your support, and on behalf of the entire Community Magazine Publishing staff, I wish you and yours all the best for a happy holiday season and a prosperous new year.
